

Fire Safety Training

WOULD YOUR STAFF KNOW WHAT TO DO?

Keeping your cool in a hot situation

Being confronted with a fire can be a very scary experience. Keeping your cool in a hot situation is all about having regular fire safety training within your workplace or organisation. Knowing what to do, and how to do it, could mean the difference between life and death – for your staff, your clients, and their customers.

Get professional fire safety training

Having the right fire safety training is simple and effective. Our experienced C4 team offer professional fire safety training customised for the workplace environment. This can be done either at your premises or ours in Onehunga, Auckland. The course is NZQA-approved, and all credits are registered with NZQA.

C4 Fire Safety training covers the following:

- The science of fire
- Alarm activation
- Types of fire extinguishers – what to use and where
- Use of hand fire extinguishers, fire hoses and fire safety blankets
- Location of your company equipment
- Evacuation plans, routes, and assembly points
